Public Forum on Disposal Well Concerns Set for October 13

Romulus residents expressing their safety concerns about the location and operation of a toxic-waste disposal well within the City left the September 27 meeting of the Romulus City Council largely unsatisfied, but determined to pursue their concerns at a public forum to be held in the Romulus High School auditorium on Wednesday, October 13, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Attempting to answer residents' questions at that time will be spokespersons from the offices of State Representative Gregory Pitoniak, State Senator William Faust, US Congressman William D. Ford, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (MDNR), the United States Environmental Protection Agency (USEPA), and the well company, Environmental Disposal Systems, Inc. (EDS).

According to many of the residents who spoke at the September 27 meeting, they first learned of the well's existence from a front-page article published in The Romulus News on August 13, 1993, and from articles which appeared in July and August issues of the Associated Newspapers' Romulus Roman and Sunday Eagle & Enterprise. They were upset that they had not heard anything about the project until it was, as several people called it, a "done deal."

And while other residents were more familiar with the fact that the well project has a three-year history – they had read the The Romulus News front-page article, "Deep Well Disposal of Toxic Waste May Come to Romulus," in the Paper's October 31, 1990 edition – they complained of the fact that the article's headline said only that the well might be located here, not that it would be.

Most of the questions asked by residents at the Council meeting fell into one of four basic areas:

- Why did City Council permit this well to be located in Romulus?
- What are the health, safety, and financial risks entailed by the well's actual operation?
- What are the health, safety, and financial risks involved in the transportation of the wastes to the well? Specifically, what risks would be faced in the event of an accident which would leak waste materials above ground?
- Is there anything that residents can do to prevent the well's operation?

During the course of the meeting, several Councilmen addressed the first of these questions, explaining that City Council had not given its approval for the well's location in Romulus; that, in fact, the City Council had no say-so at all on the subject. In such matters, local government authority is superseded by state and federal authority, and the permits allowing EDS to locate their well in Romulus were granted by the MDNR and the USEPA.

But, even though Council cannot order EDS to "close up shop," nor will it be able to supervise the well's actual operation, its members seem determined to take full advantage of what power they do have to insure that all the well's facilities are properly and safely constructed, and that the risk of above-ground contamination due to an accident is minimized as much as possible.

Said Councilman Ellis Pennington, "As far as saying no to this well [is concerned], this city council cannot. All we can do is try to get involved as much as we possibly can to help protect the citizens of the City as far as inspections and things like that are concerned."

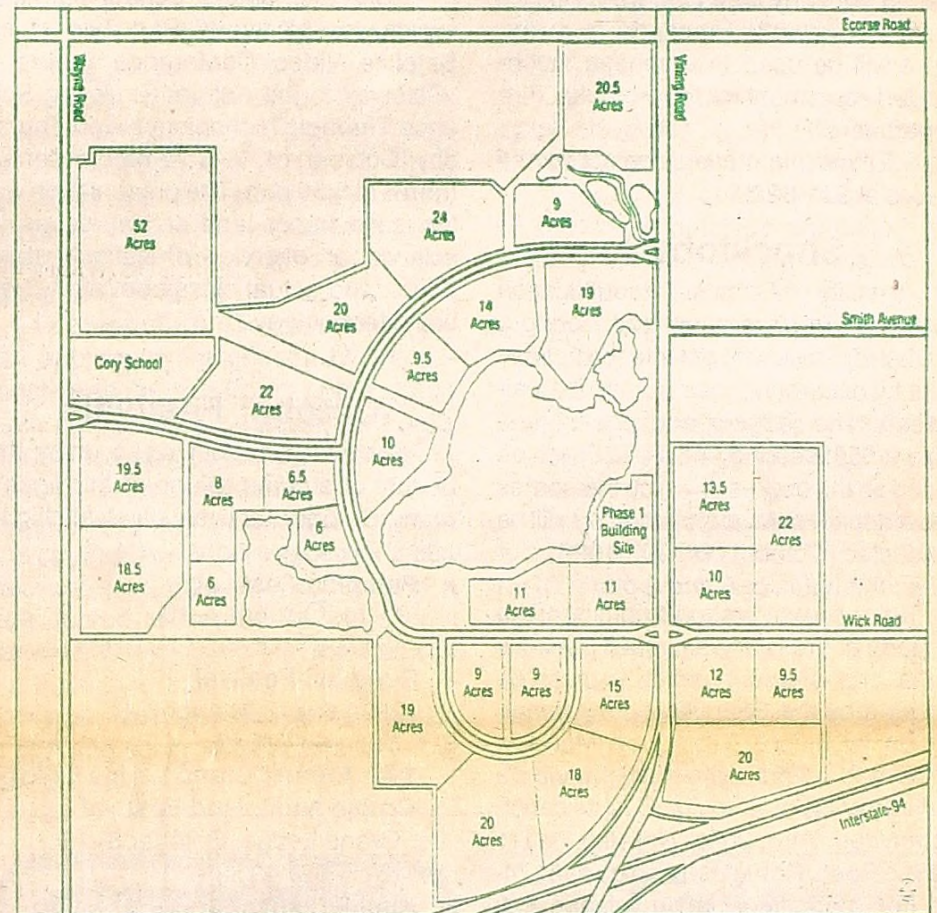

Still, some residents feel that Council was too passive in its acceptance of the legal advice it received, and should have done more to stand up for the people that it represents.

One of these residents, Mary Hatten Collins, is also a candidate in this November's City Council election. Collins told Council that residents have been contacting their state and federal representatives about the matter, with the result, she said, that "... there is hardly an office that has not told the residents to fight this project. We do not have to have it in the Area ..."

Collins continued, saying that these elected officials (whom she did not name) told residents that they could hire an attorney and seek an injunction to stop all work on the well project. She admitted, however, that there was some question as to where the money for such an endeavor might be obtained.

The meeting continued for some time, but the Council was unable to answer many of the residents' questions, which often called for technical information. Since EDS spokesperson James Clapperton declined to answer questions at the meeting, saying that he was there to listen to resident concerns which his company would address at a later date, and since several Councilmen expressed an interest in questioning state and federal representatives to find out if there really is a way to fight the well project, Councilman Russell Lambert moved to have City Clerk Linda Choate contact the offices of Pitoniak, Faust, Ford, the MDNR, the USEPA, and EDS, to schedule a public meeting that spokespersons from each office could attend. The motion, seconded by Councilman William Wadsworth, was unanimously approved. □

MASTER PLAN: METRO WORLD CENTRE

Hines Interests Limited Partnership – recently selected by E. Llywd Ecclestone, Jr., as the development and marketing advisor for Metro World Centre in Romulus – has announced that construction on Phase One of the Centre will begin early next year.

Located at the intersection of Interstate 94, Ecorse, Wayne, Vining, and Wick roads opposite Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport, Metro World Centre is a 700-acre mixed-use development.

Plans for the development have been in progress for several years in anticipation of the construction of a new I-94 interchange and overpass at the Airport and Vining Road.

"We are very pleased to announce the commitment of both State and Local government authorities to begin construction on the I-94 interchange in early 1994," explained David McGinnis, senior vice president with Hines Interests. "Construction will begin on Phase One of Metro World Centre in tandem with the State's interchange plans."

"We have spent five years laying the groundwork for the successful development of Metro World Centre," added Ecclestone. "The addition of a firm with the excellent reputation of Hines Interests Limited Partnership to assist us in this venture assures that it will meet all of our quality, schedule, and cost expectations."

The development team for the proposed Phase One office building is made up of Ecclestone, Hines Interests, Vista Development, and Hellmuth Obata & Kassabaum, Inc. Architects.

The total project is expected to include office and research buildings, luxury hotels and conference centers, a shopping area, and educational and entertainment facilities. Phase One calls for the development and construction of a six-story, 125,000-square-foot Class "A" office building.

The developers of Detroit's highly successful One Detroit Center building, Hines Interests has developed more than 435 properties Nationwide. Hines Interests is considered one of the Country's leading real estate management and development firms. Currently, the firm manages more than 20 million square feet of space for third-party clients.

The Metro World Centre development team has completed a revised master plan, developed a comprehensive marketing program, and concluded the conceptual design of the Phase One office building. □

Ford Reminds Students That Deadline Is Approaching for Military Academy Application

Congressman William D. Ford (13th District) would like to remind interested Area students of the November 1, 1993 deadline for submitting application forms for the United States military academy of their choice – West Point (Army), Annapolis (Navy), U.S. Air Force, or the Merchant Marine Academy.

Students who would like to apply for a military academy nomination should contact one of his three district offices (Wayne—313-722-1411; Ypsilanti—313-482-6636; or Ann Arbor—313-741-4210) for necessary information, said Ford. Those who have already completed an application form may call to confirm its receipt and filing.

Successful 13th Congressional District applicants are chosen by the respective academies from a pool of nominees cleared by Congressman Ford's Military Academy Screening Committee, made up of local residents.

Ford said that the qualities common among successful academy applicants are very good grades in school and a high degree of community and school service and leadership. He also said that the nominees are chosen because of their potential to benefit from, and return in part, the government's investment in their education.

"I have great pride in the young people we send to our military academies," said Ford. "They're the best ambassadors for the schools, communities, and families making up our 13th Congressional District. Their success is a credit to the parents, teachers, and community leaders who helped prepare them for the great responsibilities that their careers will bring."

Other requirements to be considered by the November 1, 1993 deadline:

- Applicants must be at least 17 years of age, but not past 22 years.
- Applicants must be unmarried, not pregnant, and have no legal obligation for support of a dependent.
- Applicants must be U.S. citizens and residents of the 13th Congressional District.
- Applicants must be high-school graduates at the time of entry into the academy.

Ford said that applicants must also complete a Pre-Candidate Questionnaire (PCQ) for the Admissions Office of each academy. Telephone numbers to request the PCQ are available through his office. The academy makes an initial evaluation of an applicant from the PCQ and shares the information with his/her screening committee. □

Harvesting a "Health-full" Fall

October is Family Health Month... and if you're interested in learning more about how to attain and/or maintain a more healthy life (both physically and mentally) for you and your loved ones, get ready to harvest a bountiful crop of special events, programs, classes, and advice on the subject.

When Kids Ask About Sex

When the subject is sex, can you answer your child's questions with honesty, comfort, and confidence?

Parents of elementary-school-age children in Romulus are invited to attend a lecture presented by two respected sexuality educators who will show you how to explain sex and sexuality to your child in a comfortable and accurate manner. Pamphlets on the subject will be available, as well.

The program, sponsored by the Romulus Adolescent Health Center, will be held in the Romulus High School side auditorium (Room 500C) on Thursday, October 7, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. For further information, please call 941-1400.

Free One-day Seminars

Annapolis Hospital-Westland Center's Community Education Series is a program of free one-day seminars, conducted by experts in the medical field, on a variety of topics. Each one-day class will be held from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the Annapolis-Westland auditorium. To register (registrations will be accepted up to and including the day of each class), call 467-2840.

Anxiety (October 5)

Anxiety can be a normal part of living – unless it becomes inappropriate or excessive. This workshop will define the different levels of anxiety, identify real vs. imagined danger, and show you how to effectively manage anxiety.

Phobias: Living in Fear (October 19)

This important workshop will help you understand and manage irrational anxieties and fears. Experts will provide information on various phobias, and individuals will share personal experiences.

Depression (November 2)

Depression is deceiving – it wears many disguises, like fatigue, insomnia, and weight loss or gain. This class will discuss the causes of depression and the many treatments available. A panel of experts will be available to address self-nurturing techniques and to answer questions.

Parenting (November 11)

This workshop will teach parents how to effectively communicate with children. You'll learn how to understand children's hidden signals, give them clear messages, and help them build confidence and high self-esteem.

Understanding Dreams (November 16)

Ever been chased by a pelican? Fallen off a rainbow? Maybe in your dreams. This workshop will explore the mystery of dreaming and explain how dreams apply to everyday life.

"Bids for Kids"

Annapolis Hospital has identified a serious problem facing the children of western Wayne County – their health. Reports show that our preschool children lack proper immunization, and many mothers-to-be aren't receiving appropriate prenatal care and education.

To help our children be healthy, Annapolis Hospital is presenting "Bids for Kids," a Gala Celebration/Auction to help develop preventive health-care programs for children. The Gala Celebration will be a fun-filled evening of dinner and both silent and live auctions on Friday, October 15, at the Holiday Inn Crowne Plaza in Romulus.

Some of the items/services to be auctioned off include Waterford crystal pieces, jewelry, a cellular phone, tickets to sporting events, use of a vacation condominium, a hypnosis session, a "family portrait" sitting, and hair-care and beauty appointments. Proceeds from the event will support an immunization, prenatal care, and education program to prevent illness before it happens.

For ticket and/or donation information, call Annapolis Hospital at 467-2534.

Get Flu Shots Now!

The last day of summer has come and gone, and now we're in the thick of it: flu season. This year, the flu is expected to be much more severe than in previous years.

That's why V.J. Khanna, M.D., director of Respiratory Care at Heritage Hospital (Taylor) and Seaway Hospital (Trenton), stresses the importance of getting flu shots as soon as possible.

"If you haven't already gotten your flu shot, get it now," says Khanna. "The flu hits hardest during the first week of October, and the vaccine takes about two weeks to build up immunity and provide appropriate protection."

Side effects of the vaccine are minimal, Khanna says, and affect only about one percent of flu-shot patients.

Khanna recommends the flu vaccine for anyone who wants to reduce his/her chance of getting the flu. Those at highest risk of catching the virus are individuals over 65 years of age; those who have chronic medical illnesses such as emphysema, congestive heart failure, lung disease, kidney disease, or diabetes; individuals with asthma or other pulmonary conditions; and those who have weak immune systems.

Other people who should get the flu vaccine, Khanna advises, include medical personnel who are liable to transfer the virus to patients, family members living in the same household, and children of people in high-risk groups.

Children under six months of age and children who are taking aspirin should not get the flu vaccine, Khanna states.

"The flu can disable a person for 10 to 15 days – and much longer for people who already have a medical condition," Khanna explains. Flu symptoms include fever, aches, loss of appetite, weight loss, stuffy nose and sinuses, and headaches. Also, Khanna adds, the flu can lower a person's defenses and lead to other, more serious illnesses such as bacterial pneumonia.

The flu shot is 80% effective in preventing the full-blown flu, Khanna says.

"If you get the flu, it takes its own course. Antibiotics are not effective in treating it, so you just have to suffer through the symptoms until they pass.

"A simple shot – just a pinch – can save you a lot of misery."

Khanna advises anyone who would like to get the flu vaccine to either see his/her personal physician or call Oakwood Health Services' Physician Referral Network at 1-800-543-WELL.

(Editor's note: For a cost of $5, Annapolis Hospital will be giving flu vaccines to Romulus senior citizens at the Romulus Senior Center – located at 36515 Bibbins – on Wednesday, October 13, from 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. Call the Center at 942-6852 for information.)

Healthy Diet, Healthy Kids

Would you like your children to eat nutritiously, maintain a healthy weight, and grow up free of food hang-ups?

Weight Watchers would like to help.

To help you observe Family Health Month, Weight Watchers is offering a brochure called "Healthy Diet, Healthy Kids." It's filled with practical information that parents need to know.

"All parents face a challenge, raising children in an environment that does not always support healthful eating habits," says Florine Mark, president and CEO of The W W Group, Inc., the largest franchise of Weight Watchers International. "Because the health consequences of obesity can be so serious, and the social stigma of overweight so painful, we urge parents to educate themselves about this issue for their children's sakes."

To accomplish this, Weight Watchers has developed a brochure for parents. It includes a healthy eating guide for children, healthy eating strategies, tips for handling common feeding problems, and advice for helping overweight children.

Most importantly, Mark stresses, "Most American children grow up and adopt the same eating habits that their parents have. The most important thing that you can do to get your child to eat healthfully is to set a good example."

For a copy of the Weight Watchers "Healthy Diet, Healthy Kids" brochure, call 1-800-487-4777.

They're TOPS in Town

TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) is a support group that provides encouragement to its members as each follows his/her chosen "safe weight-loss" program.

At a recent weigh-in, 16 members of the group's Belleville chapter (#1485) logged a total weight loss of 22.5 pounds. Of the 16, no one had gained weight, and there were no "turtles" (people whose weight stayed the same).

Some members of the group are KOPS (which stands for Keep Off Pounds Sensibly). KOPS are people who have achieved, and continue to maintain, their goal weight. In fact, one particular member of the KOPS has kept her weight off for five years – an impressive feat, indeed, considering the fact that an overwhelming number of "dieters" not only regain the weight they lose, but gain additional weight as well.

TOPS Michigan #1485 welcomes new members. The group meets every Tuesday at the Kirkridge Park Cooperative Clubhouse. Weigh-in is at 6 p.m.; meetings begin at 6:45 p.m. and usually last 20 minutes to one hour. The atmosphere is informal, and everyone has lots of fun. For more information, call Kim at 697-3721 or Flo at 722-1319. □

Punt, Pass, & Kick Champs

Twelve participants took part in the NFL Gatorade Punt, Pass & Kick competition hosted by the Romulus Recreation Department on September 18. The four Romulus youths who earned first-place honors in their respective age groups were (score in parentheses represents a cumulative total of one punt, one pass, and one kick): eight-year-old Curtis Jackson (73'8"), nine-year-old Paul Krause (79'3"), 10-year-old Joey Wasson (152'3"), and 11-year-old Prince Gray (166'9"). These four will now move on to a Sectional competition to be held on October 17 in Southgate.

Youth After-school Program

The Recreation Department's after-school program for students in grades three through six has begun.

Local Girl Appreciative of Supporters

Amanda Hislop of Romulus – a recent contestant in the 1993 East Coast Pageant for preteens, which took place on Sunday, September 26 – would like to thank all the people who sponsored her participation in the pageant. Without their support, it would have been impossible for her to have entered.

Although she wasn't a top winner at the pageant itself, she was a real winner to her family and the community that stood beside her.

Amanda hopes to be a contestant in future pageants. This year's event was a very memorable and rewarding experience for her.

Thanks again to Amanda's sponsors: Mayor Beverly McAnally, Ron/Romulus Auto Supply, Paul/Family Hair Shop, Tony and MaryJo/Romulus Hardware, Uptown Hair Fashions, Mark Chevrolet Geo, Terry's Collision, Melinda/MTM Dance Productions, First of America Bank, Gloria/Margo's Kozy Korner, Bill/Crane Funeral Home, the Rozdoske family, Grandpa McDonnell, and Grandma Fast.

To our winner always, we love you very much.

Mom, Dad, Heather, & Melanie ☐
